Pre-Election Special

The Secretary of State, Capt. Mick Preston, in compliance with Article VII Section 4 of the Organic Law, has officially announced that a General Election will be held from the Ides of June till mid July. Political Parties now have until June 10th to register for a place on the ballots which are being sent out, by various means, to the citizens of the kingdom on June 14th. The ballot will also be available for download from the Kingdom's website. This election will see the members of the 40th Cosa session elected, as well as 2 senators for the provinces of Maricopa and Maritiimi-Maxhestic, where the incumbent Senator for Maritiimi-Maxhestic, Alexander Davis, is set to hold onto his seat after receiving endorsements from all of the major political parties of the realm.

The Campaign trail has already got underway, kicked off by the Fair Governance Party. The FGP has literally come out of nowhere for this election. The party was formed after the breakdown of the CCCP a few months ago and was led by its one and only member Flip Molinar. Pundits could have predicted that the one man band would finish this election with less than 5 Cosa seats. In the past fortnight, However, the party's membership has gone up quite considerably, including the Former Minister of Culture, Éovart Grischun, and Seneschal Ventrutx. The NSP (the other by-product from the CCCP fiasco) has disbanded and it's party leader going to FGP also. Their campaign began with a flurry of posts on Wittenberg "announcing the fighting force" of the party, including party adverts and banners, some of which were subject to attempted shootdowns led by Owen Edwards of the Progressive Party and some other political figures. S:reu Edwards alleged that the adverts were negative and further went on to attack on the FGP and it's manifesto, asking them "wheres the beef?" The Progs soon released their own updated manifesto and also announced which party members would be awarded Cosa Seats after the election.

The RUMP, the current majority and governing party, announced their intention to stand again for election with their usual tounge in cheek humour; a name change was announced and a cheeky new banner released.

With the campaign underway, and with things heating up, this is shaped to be a very interesting election. The questions on everybody's lips right now are 'can the RUMP and the PP fend off the growing popularity of the FGP?' and 'can the RUMP secure another majority?'. Be sure to read the election predictions from Danihel Lupulet in his monthly column.

MICK PRESTON DISBANDS LRT

It has been reported to SDVM that Political Party, Long Range Talossans (LRT), will be officially disbanded by the party leader and sole member, Capt. Mick Preston. The party only existed due to someone voting for the party, which was not even on the ballot, at the last election. To save administrative nonsense, Preston stepped into the role of LRT party leader and member and has served in the role until now.

Immigration News

Who has joined the Kingdom?

CURRENT CITIZEN COUNT = 1 2 6

On April 8th, Ray King arrived as a Prospective. We are unsure as to whether or not Ray still wants the best thing money can't buy. He has not shown face despite attempts by Lord Hooligan to contact him.

John Wilberforce and Tycho Van Die both came to the nation on April 20th. A petition has been made for Wilberforce, however, we are yet to hear from him. Tycho Van Die, on the other hand, has been accepted as a full citizen of the nation and of the province of Cézembre, as of May 14.

Michele Soliani became a prospective citizen on May 2nd. A citizenship petition was made for Soliani on May 18th which led to him becoming a citizen of Talossa and the province of Benito on May 22nd. Michele has adopted the Talossan name of Mic'haglh Altavilla.

David Drew has decided to join the Kingdom after dabbling in several micronations previously. He arrived as a prospective on May 19th while Marco Mazzini arrived on May 21st.

In related news, a debate has been ongoing as to whether inactive citizens should be stricken off the rolls after failing to vote in 3 consecutive elections. Some people, in particular the FGP members, claim that padded rolls may in turn increase immigration figures, while others think it will harm the nations credibility.

MinCULT QUILTS

The recently appointed Minister of Culture has resigned his post and renounced his membership from the RUMP. This is the second time that S:r Grischun has left the RUMP since joining the nation in February 2009. Grischun blamed his party leader and the Seneschal's lack of leadership and guidance for his departure and protest resignation.

Words were publicly exchanged between Grischun and Lord Hooligan on Witt, however, both managed to keep their cool without tempers being broken.

S:r Grischun has since aligned himself with the Fair Governance Party (FGP).

On my summer vacation, I went to visit my gramma in Ohio. It was very hot on the drive. We ate peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, and my brother tried to steal mine.

In Ohio, I went to visit the zoo. I saw a giraffe. It had a very long neck and was very tall. The lady said that this was so it could eat the leaves from tall trees. She was very nice and had red hair.

My gramma is very old. She is very nice. When we go to her house, we have ice cream every day, and she reads to me from a book before I go to sleep. I love my gramma.

The end.

PET SURVEY UNDERWAY

The Talossan Animal Protection League and Zoological Society (TAPZ) has began a survey of domesticated pets owned by the citizens of our Kingdom. The survey is being headed by TAPZ member Çelis del Peracour.

The survey was commissioned by the previous Minister of Culture, S:r Grischun, who is also the chairman and founder of TAPZ. It was supposed to be a joint project, with TAPZ collecting information for a wildlife guide being written by the Ministry of Culture. However, the survey is now being handled in full by TAPZ and it is currently unknown if the wildlife guide will still be produced by Grischun or by his Ministry successor.

As election time approaches, it is important that we are informed on the issues upon which this election will be decided. What choices need to be made? How can we improve the lives' of our citizenry and increase the noteworthiness and overall exposure of our fair and robust nation? Perhaps the most important question is this: How can we as Talossans ensure the continued prosperity, equality, and overall quirkiness of our great society?

IT IS TIME that our government works not just to maintain, but to further our country by focusing deeply on our culture. The Talossan Language must be allowed to grow and in doing so, gain usage not only within the confines of CUG discussions and publications, but in everyday conversations and legislation as well. Therefore, The FGP will promote and work to develop more materials in and about El Glheþ. This will include general and special interest literary creation. We will also introduce the nation's inaugural "Artistic Olympic Games".

IT IS TIME that we had an active Wargames Bureau. The FGP applaud the current efforts of Owen Edwards in his work to create a Talossan Wargame. We hope that Owen will continue in the role of National Gamesmaster under an FGP government and we will work to support him in the tasks of the bureau.

IT IS TIME that our history is brought up to date and maintained. We will work to achieving this task along with the National Archivist. We will also work on finding a way to back up the ProBoards Wittenberg for prosperity sakes.

IT IS TIME that Talossa achieves a greater level of credibility upon the Worlds Stage. The FGP will deliver our manifesto pledges of currency and stamps within 4 months and official government seals and stationery within 1 month. We will also work to increase the Kingdom's web based presence and work to expose the nation to the world through various media.

IT IT TIME that the Kingdom is allowed to take the next steps forward, IT IS TIME that the Kingdom had a more transparent and efficient government, IT IS TIME that Talossa shines and IT IS TIME for the FGP!

POETRY

CONTEST 2009

Owen Edwards has organized a poetry contest for citizens to participate in. Edwards will judge the contest, on his merits as a published poet, along with, perhaps, the King. The entries can be of any length, style and subject and the closing date is penciled in as June 15th. The winning entries may be included into a small chapbook. Edwards has also invited citizens of the Republic to take part in the contest as a gesture of Pan-Talossan cultural exchange.

TO ENTER A POEM INTO THE CONTEST ALL YOU NEED TO DO IS SEND YOUR ENTRIES TO OWEN EDWARDS DIRECTLY.

Last Month's Main Article (titled "HOLIDAY OF HATRED") contained an error. The sub header read that this year celebrated the 25th anniversary of the holiday when in actual fact it is the 26th anniversary. All other information and dates in the article are believed to be correct.

Last month we reported on Joseph Walkland, who returned to Talossa after an extended period of disappearance. We reported that we were yet to hear from the immigration department on whether S:r Walkland will be allowed to return without a renewed citizenship petition.

It has since come to our attention that Walkland did not officially 'Strike Out' and that his citizenship is still active.

PARTY FOCUS

Really Unpopular Majority Party (RUMP)

Written by

Lord Hooligan

The RUMP comes before the nation to proudly announce that after long and laborious discussions, an agreement has been hammered out, and my fine party is happy to make it public that it is now officially in coälition with itself. This political alliance that the RUMP has now formally created with the largest party in Talossa will, it is hoped, prove beneficial to both signatories...and to the RUMP specifically. This coälition is perhaps unique in Talossan politics, in that during discussions leading to the agreement, not a single issue was identified in which disagreement was found. The RUMP thus enters into this coälition without any compromise, or any accommodation, standing (well, sitting) strong for each and every one of its positions.

In keeping with its tradition, the RUMP (which has long been some kind of force in, or at least a feature of, Talossan politics) adopts a new name for its acronym with each general election. For the elections to the 40th Cosa, the RUMP declares itself to be El Parti Maxhorità Trei Unpopular (PMTU) / The Really Unpopular Majority Party (RUMP). With this proud eponym, the RUMP sallies forth into the upcoming campaign, and urges the electorate to HOLD YOUR NOSE AND VOTE RUMP!

The RUMP believes in more of the same, and that there is nothing better for this nation than to continue all of the initiatives that the RUMP has created. We came up with the economic system, and we planned the coins and stamps, and we'll continue working on it. We refinished the cabinet, and we've done our best to find people who will stick with the cabinet posts and work them, and we'll try again next time. We organized the royal household, and created the college of arms and our members have always kept that place going, and will. We have put the nation's culture above anything else, and made the Ministry of Culture as important to our nation as it is today, and our members have worked tirelessly on cultural matters, from the language to football to opera. We have managed to somehow make a lot of people mad at us, but it was only for fun – everyone loves a good RUMP. We have done a lot in the past and the nation knows we'll do a lot in the future. Even while we joke about how lazy we are. Now pour me another beer – The Princess Bride is coming on.

With due deference to our coälition partner, the RUMP believes that the electorate would be well-served to... VOTE RUMP in the coming election.

Provincial Roundup

Benito:

Vicere Owen Edwards, in King John's name, on the 5th of May, promulgated the new Constitution of Benito. It was Vicere Edwards' first act of office since assuming the role last month.

The Benito Corporative Chamber was in recess for the month of May.

Cézembre:

The Senator for Cézembre, X. Pol Briga, has reached out to the citizens of the province to come to him with any issues that they feel need to be addressed by him. This comes following the debates regarding the Senats Reform Amendment

Atatürk .

Çelis del Peracour has begun work as the Premier of the Province. It is believed she has attempted to initiate discussions off Wittenberg with her fellow provincial citizens.

Absolutely nothing else has happened in our nations provinces, which is the way we seem to like it.

Elections in The Republic of Talossa

There have been three consecutive elections held in the Republic of Talossa this month. A ballot for for the fifth President of the Republic was held, plus a by-election for a seat in the Chamber of Deputies, as well as a referendum for ratification of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution (Cleanup) Bill. All the ballots took place in the same time frame, from midnight on 17 May to midnight on 30 May. As opposed to the full month used in Kingdom elections, a two-week voting cycle is mandated by Republic law.

The fifth President of the Republic of Talossa was inaugurated on June 1st. Txec Danihél dâl Már (non-partisan) won the election, beating after Kane dâl Navà, Gödafrieu Valcádac'h and D. N. Vercárià. He recieved 45.5% of the first round vote count and 54.5% in the final round. 11 out of 21 eligible citizens voted.

Prior to the election dâl Már released a statement;

“The revolution is a success. Some would have us believe we are always on the brink of doom. I say we are on the brink of something worthy. A tweak here and there and let's air up the tires and we can roll into a glorious future! “”

Meanwhile, Cauvesc Carlüs Xheráltsefiglheu has won the by-election for the seat in The Chamber of Deputies.

Both the Presidential election and the by-election for the seat in the Chamber of Deputies were carried out by means of Single Transferable Vote (STV) using a service known as Demochoice. Republic elections are conducted under secret ballot, which is a requirement of both law (Electoral Code 2.2b) and Constitution (II.1.2 and II.2.14). Miestrà Patricàsëfiglhà Schivà, the Secretár d'Éstat for the Republic said,

“It is, I think, one of the major democratic gains of the Revolution of June 2004. Recent Royalist citizens may not remember how badly former King Robert abused the “public ballot” system of the OrgLaw to identify, isolate and abuse dissenters, and to award the craven and sycophantic. I personally think that there's no free democracy without a secret ballot, but of course opinions may differ.”

The citizens of the Republic also voted to amend the constitution. 9RC3, the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution (Cleanup) Bill removes an ambiguity around the times that the President of the Republic can call elections of the Chamber of Deputies; and will require that at least 30 voters participate in a Chamber of Deputies election before the Senäts can be activated. Citizens had the choice to abstain from voting in the referendum.

The referendum to amend the constitution was carried out using a service known as BallotBin. Again this was conducted under secret ballot.

“Ballotbin and DemoChoice are services which are not only secret and reliable, but fully automate the counting.” added Schivà, “With the Single Transferable Vote system we use to elect our representatives, making the counting easy to do is very important! These systems are only used as a convention by the SoS's office, and the law allows us to use any system which is convenient.”

BallotBin was discovered for use by former Secretary of State Jay Shorten and DemoChoice was discovered by Deputy Inxheneu Crovâ.

Basically, this is so short not only because I had no time to write it, but also because our key promises are so concise and clear and magnificent. The Progressives want to be grown ups about the Republic and make better friends with them by just, yknow, talking to them in an official but informal level. We want Talossa to be a responsible member of the international community and we want to strengthen our sense of identity by coming together in a national humanitarian aid fund. We want to further reform the way the Ziu works to make it more efficient and to make members of the Ziu more accountable to their constituents. We like friendship, responsibility, identity and democracy, basically. And beating back alien invasions. If you like these things too, vote Progressive!"

First of all, much-better for printing! Bravo on this. The yellow can go, though. You've enough color in this publication without the yellow boxes which just get in the way. Always remember that less is more.

Happily, the content remains voluminous. I did not know about the diplomacy game going on. It takes incredible effort for something like this to last, and a monthly publication date is a very workable schedule.

Looking forward to June...

Hi Éovart!

Presently an election (President), a by-election (one seat in the Chamber of Deputies) and a referendum (constitutional amendments) are due over here, so what about sending your reporters across the border, so that they can report about some highlights of the political life in the Republic? Including exclusive interviews with candidates and observers and all that jazz...

Election Fever 2009

This month, I must state that my column reflects my own personal views and not that of any political party and not of the magazine.

Of course, the readers of this magazine will be expecting me to talk about the FGP and how great it is, or try to use my column to bring down the opposing parties, however, I am not going to. Instead I would like to take this opportunity to do something a little different ... Give Gratitude.

Yes, that's right, I want to thank some people. Firstly, I want to thank my fellow party members for working hard during this campaign. Every contribution has been valuable to both myself and Flip Molinar, the party leader. Then on that note a thanks to Flip for bringing me into the FGP and for being a good friend during this campaign and not just a colleague.

I want to thank Owen Edwards for being a first class gent in this campaign. He has stood for election with honor and I admire his style. Although Owen and myself have exchanged blows during the run up to this election, and we have had some serious differences of opinion, I want to thank him for being an opponent with decency. I do not share Owen's "progressive" or "neo-peculiarist" ideologies, but he is a guy who will give it his all for his country, whether he is right or wrong. I can not fault that quality in the slightest.

I would now like to take a moment to reach out to all Talossans, in the hopes that some inactive citizens read this magazine and hear this message. Please do not let apathy into our election. I urge you to send your ballot back with a vote, no matter which party that may be. Your voice really does matter, don't let it go unheard.

Now, only God in Heaven knows for sure what is in store for the future of our political arena. We politicians are now in the hands of the electorate and I want to wish each and every party leader the very best of luck. Every MC acts on the belief that what they do on a day to day basis is for the benefit of the Kingdom, no matter what their beliefs and ideologies are. This sometimes goes overlooked, and I want us all to recognize this for just one moment. Political differences aside, I wish you all the best.

Danihel Lupulet

Agitprop Galore

Before anything, I would like to point out that I speak for myself only and do not represent the RUMP or the Stil da Vida magazine. But to continue...

Well, the kind editor has asked me to write my column about the upcoming election, and so far not much has happened. The FGP have published their manifesto, hopefully the RUMP will do so soon, there was a little debate about the 'three strikes' law (which everyone except Sir Fritz seemed to like), the PP and FGP apparently don't like each other, and that's just about it. So instead of writing about the campaigns of the parties, I'll write about my predictions about how the election will go.

Firstly, I think that the RUMP will lose the minority and, again, win a small majority of the Cosa (my guess is 105 seats in the end go to RUMP, the RUMP will probably give some seats as the King's Perogative). Why? Because not that much has happened to decrease the RUMP's popularity. Sure, there have been some disagreements between Seneschal Ventrutx and some minority leaders, but they wouldn't have voted RUMP anyway. And let's not forget the hoards of inactives who will vote RUMP out of loyalty. There will probably be a similar distribution of seats within the party. But what of the (sometimes more interesting to watch) minority parties? The FGP has rocketed up in popularity, even recruiting our dear Editor, and I think that it will get about the same number of votes as the PP (I would guess 40 seats each). As for the CRO, DPD, GRUMP and RDP, I think that they're going to be one/two seat parties (depending on how many people vote) as I haven't seen any evidence of support for these parties outside of their founders.

As for the Senate, Maritiimi-Maxhestic and Maricopa will be up for election. Maritiimi-Maxhestic already has an extremely capable Senator in Alexander Davis. He would be nuts not to run and the population would be nuts not to vote for him. However, the Senator of Maricopa, Olaf Brainerd, should probably not get too comfortable in his seat. He has missed a couple of Clarks (by my memory, and that's what's going to count) and I think if a party nominates a reasonably capable candidate, that candidate is going to win.

In conclusion, I would first like everyone to remember this only if I'm mostly right. Secondly, an impassioned call for all of you to vote RUMP, because Danihel wants more of his sweet, sweet power. Mwahahahahahaha...

What Talossa Means to Me

Those of you who know me will know my history with Talossa. Those that don't are about to get a history lesson.

I am one of the "Wired" kids. Along with Margretâ Proßelitéir of California and Mic'háglh Dñitz of Somewhere-up-Northeast-U.S., I found out about Talossa through the extensive article written by Alex Blumberg and published in the March 2000 issue (issue 8.03) of Wired magazine.

[Link to article:

<http://www.wired.com/wired/archive/8.03/kingdoms.html>]

I read the article in March, but I forgot about it. In May 2000 (and I remember exactly where I was and the moment in which it happened), I suddenly remembered the article and checked out www.talossa.com. I made my first post to what was then Wittenberg VI on 6 June 2000 and along with the other Wired kids and the former Queen Amadá Ascúnsvâts became a citizen of the Kingdom on 5 August 2000 at the Living Cosá. I was not at the event, but I did phone in. I spoke with JJ, Ben, and Dixhêt Conâ.

Talossa to me is a community built around the creative output stemming from Ben Madison's declaration of independence of 26 December 1979. Because of this, I cannot regard either today's Kingdom of Talossa or the Republic of Talossa founded on 1 June 2004 as the sole embodiment of Talossa.

Both are the twin halves of Talossa. In the Kingdom lies the legal tradition and part of the social continuity going back to 1979. In the Republic lies the further evolution of Talossan legal tradition (though not the tradition itself) as well as the far-greater continuity of the direct day-to-day society of the Kingdom of Talossa going back to 1979.

Talossa to me is a nation torn in two by people who are no longer around. Talossa is being kept apart by wounds that still smart, personalities, and wildly divergent visions of what Talossa's governance should be.

Talossa to me is a people filled with such bright and shining minds which, were they to act in concert, would be unstoppable: Miestrâ and Xhorxh...Hooligan and Dieter...Kane and Fritz...JJ and JKK... Yet the most-influential people of both countries (and you know who you are), some of whom have been my best friends in Talossa, are helping to keep Talossa from becoming its best. Our Golden Age is yet to come!

Yet the Republic must continue to exist. And it must thrive (sorry, Hooligan). Until that glorious day that shall come through means as-yet-unforeseen when a united Talossa shall be a comfortable and safe place for all, the Republic and Kingdoms must stand together as nations separate to make for places where so many with wildly-divergent views can come to, as Art Verbotten put it years ago, the porch-light that is Talossa.

Yet the Kingdom must continue to exist. And like the Republic, it must thrive (sorry, Kane, but it's true). Ah, paradox.

The Kingdom of Talossa, territorial anomalies notwithstanding, must recognize the Republic of Talossa as an independent sovereign state in the spirit of World Singular Secession. If France and Spain can rule Andorra together, then the two Talossas can rule over Florenciâ, Maricopa, etc. together as well.

Personality anomalies notwithstanding, the Republic of Talossa must (if not already) recognize the Kingdom of Talossa independent sovereign state in the spirit of World Singular Secession. Both states are, in different ways, equal heirs to the pre-1-June-2004 Talossa, and are both, in their own ways, direct descendants and direct continuances of the old Kingdom.

Most-importantly, we must visit each other's Wittenbergs, and get the healing started. It will take many years to make a single Talossan state come about, but it can and must be done - in the fullness of time.

In the meantime, let's have two thriving Talossan communities while we make a greater one to come!

Viva Talossa!!
